Corson's Concepts

Here we are in 2019 with an ever-developing work in Mozambique Africa. Leonard, our Mozambique director, has made the decision to build our own House or, as some missions put it, compound. Leonard has completed the purchase of the property, and now we need to start building. We have been renting a house since 2009 and the rent is going up more and more all the time. We are paying approx. $1000.00 a month on rent and utilities, and we are expected to make and pay for any repairs needed for the property (a normal expectation in Mozambique). Over the years, we have had to repair the roof, the electrical, and the water in the house we are renting. It is about time to start repairing again and we want to put our money into our own house. In addition, the government has taken an interest in our work, and the Minister of Religion has advised us to secure a place of our own to demonstrate permanency (there is always concern that a Western-originated organization will suddenly pull out or shut down, abandoning the locals).

Leonard's work in Mozambique requires us to build several structures for the compound. One structure will be to live in and hold seminars in. This structure will need a living area for Leonard and his family, a living area for AI, and at least two guest areas. We will also need bathrooms for those staying at the compound, and one area to hold seminars with a public bathroom. As you can see, this structure will need to be a considerable size to accommodate the work that we are doing right now. We will also need to build a storage building for our field equipment like our truck and tractor cultivator.

The cost of building in Mozambique is almost 30% higher than it is to build in South Africa due to the cost of building materials. We can buy the wood we need from local saw mills, but most of the building materials will have to be imported. We are looking at saving as much money as we can by buying a block making machine and making our own concrete building blocks. A block making machine is $8000.00 USD, but blocks are much cheaper if you can make them yourself (additionally, the machine can be used after we're done to supply other construction projects in the area).

As many of our supporters already know, we have a Tractor, Disk,

Corn seeder, and grader blade, a welding machine, Medical supplies (such as baby scales, monitor, IV stands, bandages), two commercial sowing machines, two work benches, 20 bolts of material to make shoes and bags out of, and a 16 ft trailer. These items have been donated to the work in Mozambique and we will need to ship them over in a container. This compound will help us properly secure these tools once they arrive in Mozambique.

The cost of building the structures on this property will be approximately 180,000.00 USD. This will include a well with pump, Electricity hook up, phone hookup, plumbing the house for kitchen and bathrooms, wiring the house, buying bathroom fixtures for the bathrooms, and kitchen fixtures. The shop/storage building will have electric and water as well. We will also build a loading dock to provide a secure place to unload containers. This dock will also be used to export shoes to other countries in the future. The sales are going on already in these countries. The volume is developing as we are growing.

Leo's shoe factory

This is an investment in God's work in Mozambique. This work is being developed and driven by indigenous Mozambique people that are striving to be 100% on their own financially to take a lead role in their country and the work they seek to do for God.

May god have all the glory

Leonard's Logic

All my projects are meant to empower (disciple) the pastors and other people to have a greater control of their Spiritual and Physical lives. I take pastors and others to my fields and other projects and allow them to ask questions and make contributions. When people ask questions and make contributions they are transforming Spiritually and when they go back and apply the Biblical-Thinking they will be changing their Physical life. I also talk about huge church farms and other church businesses in the USA and people are thrilled by the fact that by working both Spiritually and Physically they honor God. People are surprised because other missionaries don't talk about church farms and businesses in the developed world, they always preach about miracles. Thanks for the internet, I researched and found out that there are Church farms and businesses in the USA. Al, you also mentioned the Church farms in our numerous conversations. Christians need to control hunger, poverty and also raise money for the House of the Lord. Christians should take the lead by doing something rather sitting down and complain about things. If Christians don't do it, who will?
